

<http://www.foxnews.com/us/2010/06/17/portion-arizona-wildlife-refuge-closed-safety-concerns/>

This article reads, in part, "Pinal County Sheriff Paul Babeu told Fox News on Wednesday that violence against law enforcement officers and U.S. citizens has increased in the past four months, further underscoring the need to keep the area off-limits to Americans."

The area in question is 3,500 acres of taxpayer-funded government land in Arizona. Why has it been closed to us? It's been closed off due to "concerns fueled by drug and human smuggling along the Mexican border."

How long has it been like this? "The section of land... has been closed since Oct. 6, 2006." Of course, that's only the amount of time it's been CLOSED – and not the amount of time it's been under foreign control. Four YEARS? And Obama and the Pelosiettes refuse to do anything about it? And they CONDEMN Arizona for trying to keep the illegal aliens out?

"...violence against ...U.S. citizens ...underscoring the need to keep the area off-limits to Americans." What's wrong with that statement? Part of the USA is off-limits to United States citizens because foreigners have taken over? This is called "invasion." This is called "war."

Let's see if we can put it in realistic, NON-idealistic, NON-utopist terms...

If Germans... Argentineans... Iranians... Russians... Afghans... were walking into, say, Washington DC -- by the dozens or hundreds or thousands -- or in numbers between 12 and 20 MILLION – and many of them were heavily armed and transporting cocaine to the nearest elementary school, would we simply shut down the capital and warn Americans to keep out? "Shhhh... ignore them and they'll go away..." We've been ignoring them for decades and they haven't gone away yet. People! It's not going to happen! What's that old saying? "The definition of insanity is doing the same thing over and over and expecting different results." [-Rita Mae Brown] I'm now of the opinion that our nation's leaders are all insane, and Obama is the head-nutcase at the asylum. The criminally insane have taken over, and the keepers have been cast out.

And my 2nd Amendment right to keep and bear arms may be the only thing that keeps the invading force from walking right into my living room and either forcing me out or killing me.

A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed.

I'd like to encourage everyone to find, buy, download (whatever's necessary) a copy of the Constitution. The reasons are simple:

First, criminals and foreigners are screaming that everything they don't like is "unconstitutional." That's the new byword; the means by which to force others into submission. It doesn't matter if the complaint isn't even in the constitution in the first place. It matters only that someone makes the accusation. "It's my constitutional right to <fill in the blank with the crime, vice, or whiney-assed desire of your choice>."

"...to have buffet meals and big-screen televisions in prison! It's my constitutional right to use drugs! It's my constitutional right to have a free house! It's my constitutional right to get welfare even though I'm here illegally! I have a constitutional right to a Bachelor's degree -- free! It's my constitutional right to enter your country whenever I want!" Buffets aren't mentioned in the constitution. Neither are free housing, illicit drugs, welfare checks, college education, or illegal entry into the USA. But that doesn't matter, does it? Yelling "UNCONSTITUTIONAL!" means that someone, somewhere, will try to prove s/he's so "forward thinking" that all the ridiculous claims will be approved.

Second, while the selfish, lazy, apathetic, criminal, and foreign are screaming, "unconstitutional," the SAME people who agree with them are saying that the Constitution doesn't apply any more. Read that again. Many politicians now claim the Constitution is merely an outdated and archaic look at history, but not applicable today. So while criminals are literally getting away with murder using the Constitution to prove something that's NOT in the Constitution, our political leaders are saying that our true Constitutional rights don't exist at all. What an oxymoron!

Get a copy of the Constitution. It may be the only way to prove YOUR rights someday. And if it's too late for that, the Constitution might be worth a dollar as an historic document... In a few years... After "USA" stands for Union of Socialist Anarchists.